SECTION 1 - Purpose of the Instructions.

1. These instructions contain regulations concerning mobilization work of Military District Commands, Air Force Command, Naval Command, Corps, Division and Brigade Commands, and Voivodship Military Commands, and establishes the authority of the Ministry of National Defense (MON) Central Institutions in preparing and carrying out the mobilization of military units. At the same time these instructions establish the principles for directing mobilization work in military units and military regional commands by MON Central Institutions and the above-mentioned commands.

SECTION 2 - Nature of Mobilization.

1. In the event of a threat or attack by an aggressor, the country changes over from a state of peace to a state of war. This change-over is called mobilization.
2. The mobilization of the country, and especially the Armed Forces, the state administrative apparatus, industry, transport and telecommunications, finance and all economic ministries involved in supplying the country - takes place in accordance with plans drawn up during the time of peace pertaining to the change-over to a state of war, which include:
 - Organizational structure of the Armed Forces and the administrative and economic apparatus,
 - Planned supply of the Armed Forces and the country,
 - Preparation of the people ideologically and politically to defend the country,
 - Intensifying vigilance and strengthening public security,
 - Utilizing science for purposes of defending the country and living under a wartime economy.
3. Mobilization of the Armed Forces is the most important and deciding factor of the general mobilization of the entire State. It is based on the planned and prompt change-over of all military units from a peacetime to a wartime basis.

The transformation of military units into a wartime organization can be accomplished in the following manner:

- a) The military unit changes over to a wartime T/O and E but remains on the same organizational level,
- b) The military unit changes over to a wartime T/O and E by changing its organization to the next higher level,
- c) The military unit is reorganized according to a wartime T/O and E,
- d) During the period of mobilization, the peacetime military unit is divided into organizationally independent units by forming them according to a wartime T/O and E,
- e) The military unit maintains its peacetime organization,
- f) The military unit is reformed.

"The Table of Mobilizing Military Units", drawn up during peacetime, establishes the method of changing over units of the Armed Forces into a wartime organization.

The mobilization of the Armed Forces is carried out on the basis of mobilization plans drawn up during peacetime and pertaining to:

- The change over of military units into a wartime T/O and E - prepared within these units,
- The replenishment of military units during the period of mobilization - prepared in the military regional commands,
- The direction of the mobilization of military units - prepared in the MON Central Institutions, Military District Commands, Air Force Command, Naval Command, Corps, Division and Brigade Commands, and the Voivodship Military Commands.

4. The preparedness of the Armed Forces for the judicious completion of mobilization is achieved by:

- a) Continual concern over bringing the T/O and E of military units up to a wartime status,
- b) Being familiar with armaments, military technology and seeing to it that the entire complement of the Armed Forces make good use of them,
- c) Systematically raising the level of combat and political training, education and discipline as well as seeing to it that all military personnel strictly observe military regulations, units of the Armed Forces in a state of combat readiness,

- 2) Universal - based on placing all units of the Armed Forces in a state of combat readiness.

SECTION 4 - Ways of Carrying Out the Mobilization.

These are the following ways to carry out mobilization:

- 1) Covert - is based on the fact that the order for mobilization is given only to a few individuals and not to the public.
- 2) Overt - is based on giving the order for mobilization to all citizens, with the aid of announcements, the radio, etc.

SECTION 5 - Division of Military Units Under Mobilization Conditions.

Military units under mobilization conditions are divided into:

SECTION 6 - Date of Mobilization Preparedness.

1. The date of mobilization preparedness is the specific time during which the mobilized unit must achieve full combat preparedness.
2. The date of mobilization preparedness is established and can be changed only exclusively by the Minister of National Defense.
3. The date of mobilization preparedness for mobilized units is given in "The Table for Mobilizing Military Units" - according to the day of mobilization. For example: "N-6", where the letter "N" signifies the first unknown calendar day of mobilization; the number "6" signifies the sixth day of mobilization, the last day of mobilization preparedness.
4. Every day of mobilization lasts 24 hours and begins at 0001 hours and ends at 2400 hours.
5. The first day of mobilization is designated by the Minister of National Defense through an order calling for mobilization.

For mobilized units having mobilization preparedness dates of up to N-3, the date of reporting for duty should be one day less and for units having longer preparations dates - the date of reporting for duty should be two days less than the date of their mobilization preparedness.

Concerning reserve officers assigned from other military districts - mobilization assignments are made by the appropriate voivodship military commanders of those military districts in the region which these officers live.

These lists do not mention professional officers who received mobilization assignments to the same position which they occupied during peacetime, independent of the fact that these units will be reorganized according to wartime table of organization. The peacetime officer staffings form the basis for recording their names into wartime officers staffing. An extract from the order of the Minister of National Defense forms the basis for actualizing war officer staffings, particularly those officers on the level of the Cadre Department of the Ministry of National Defense, the Main Political Administration of the Polish Army, the Military District Command, the Air Force Command, the Naval Command, and the appropriate units being mobilized.

The Voivodship Military Commander, after receiving the confirmed list, sends the third copy of the list to the appropriate mobilizing units,
- c) Makes duplicate record cards of reserve officers ("A" cards), who have been given mobilization assignments and sends them to the appropriate mobilizing units together with two photographs for the officer's identification cards,
- d) Draws up lists of all reserve officers on mobilization assignments and sends them to the appropriate regional military commands.

SECTION 28 - Giving Mobilization Assignments to Professional and Reserve Officers in Air Force and Naval Units.

1. The Air Force Command and the Navy Command, after receiving from the Cadre Department of the Ministry of National Defense and the Main Political Administration of the Polish Army lists of professional and reserve officers on mobilization assignments of generals and officers to the T/O posts of lieutenant colonel (lieutenant commander) and above, drawn up on the basis of proposals of the Air Force Commander and the Naval Commander, enters the information contained on them into previously prepared publications of war officers staffings, drawn up for all mobilized units and in turn contained in "Table for Mobilizing Military Units".
